

STIR-FRY DISHES SAVE ON FUEL and yet make great main dishes such as this Chicken Oriental brought to peak of flavor with Ac'cent Flavor Enhancer.

Fuel saving main dishes use the stir-fry method

When you would save on fuel, look to the Orient for ideas. You can save a lot of fuel by cooking the Chinese stir-fry way. The food is cut into small strips before cooking so that it takes only minutes over the heat. You can follow this technique either with the big, shallow utensil that the Chinese call a wok, or use a large skillet for the purpose.

People of the Orient have long known the virtues of a product such as Ac'cent Flavor Enhancer when cooking their quick, stir-fry way. This helpful natural substance lends a depth of flavor to foods that approaches the same result as when foods are treated to long, slow cooking. It's a very valuable thing to know in these dys of saving on fuel.

Chicken Oriental is a noble example of the art of stir-fry cookery. It offers a savory, satisfying main dish with only minutes of cooking time, and hence only a short amount of fuel expended. Boned and skinned chicken thighs are the meat used, and they are cut into succulent, quick-cooking strips to suit the stir-fry technique. Delicious seasoning vegetables such as celery, green pepper and onion are chosen, as well as pineapple chunks. The flavor enhancer seems to tie all together into a pleasant harmony. Though the basic ingredients are easily obtainable and not at all expensive, the dish is definitely on the glamorous side, a treat for family or friends. You can save fuel, too, by serving this dish on canned Chinese noodles, the crisp kind.

Another stir-fry creation that you will enjoy is Beef Liver with Vegetables. Here fresh mushrooms combine with economical beef liver to make a tantalizingly delicious dish requiring a minimum amount of fuel. To join the effort to save on energy at home, do try these interesting and appealing recipes.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: You are the only person I can think of who might be able to help. It's about my mother, Abby. My father died four years ago (he was 71), and my mother is still carrying on like he died last week. She talks about him constantly. She visits his grave every single day, and if we don't go with her every Sunday, she thinks we're disrespectful.

Every holiday is turned into a day of mourning because Mother insists on all of us going to the cemetery with her to cry over Papa's grave.

We loved our father, too, but don't you think four years of mourning is long enough?

Mother's doctor told her it's time she snapped out of it, but it hasn't helped her any.

Isn't there something we can do?

MOTHER TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Yes. Tell mother's doctor that simply telling a deeply troubled woman to "snap out of it" is not much help. She needs treatments to resolve her grief and resume a normal life. Her daily visits to the cemetery and constant talk of her deceased husband are symptoms of her illness. And if her doctor doesn't clearly see this, find one who does.

DEAR ABBY: Ten months ago, I met this wonderful man, and we fell in love. We plan a December wedding. I am 24. He's 29.

One thing bothers me. Three years ago, I chose to have an abortion. No one knows about it, and I want to block it out of my mind forever. I know I did the right thing and have no guilt feelings about it, but here's the problem:

HEARTY TUNA CORN CHOWDER captures the flavor of traditional Cape Cod fare. Its satisfying goodness will please any seafarer or armchair sailor.

Sailors delight in delicious Cape Cod dishes-with tuna

The early Pilgrims, who arrived on the Mayflower, survived their first winter with the help of the Indians. They showed the new immigrants how to grow corn, hunt, fish and to preserve foods for the long winter. Most of all, the Indians taught them to prepare nourishing dishes with regional foods. That's how the early settlers were able to cope with a rugged, outdoors existence and in time developed a distinctive culinary tradition.

Cape Cod is particularly well-known for its savory seafood specialties. And Tuna Corn Chowder is a dish that captures the flavors and heartiness of Cape Cod fare. Succulent chunks of canned tuna in vegetable oil are combined with kernels of corn and diced potatoes in a creamy chicken broth that is delicately seasoned with parsley, onion and celery.

Another appealing Cape Cod favorite is a seafood-style stew, adapted with tuna. Team the stew with fresh country bread and a green salad and you'll have a substantial meal. It's nourishing and satisfying because it contains the complete protein food, canned tuna. Serve your armchair sailors this seafarers chow and be ready to answer calls for second helpings!

TUNA CORN CHOWDER
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen whole kernel corn, thawed
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 teaspoon salt

Add pureed corn, remaining corn kernels, potatoes, chicken broth, salt and pepper. Bring to boil over high heat, cover, reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. ## Personal reasons cited

Wolford resigns as city manager

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Dan Wolford, Washington C.H.'s city manager for nearly five years, resigned from the position during Wednesday night's regular City Council meeting.

The 27-year-old Wolford, who was perhaps the nation's youngest city manager when appointed to the post in late 1970, cited personal reasons in his letter of resignation to City Council members.

The resignation is scheduled to become effective July 10.

Council members Wednesday night did not vote on whether or not to accept Wolford's resignation. The city's legislators did not indicate when a new city manager would be appointed to fill the vacancy being created by Wolford's resignation.

Wolford, 141 Carolyn Road, said he is presently "exploring several private business opportunities" and does not plan to re-enter municipal government in any capacity.

City Council chairman Ralph Cook, his voice cracking with emotion, read the four-paragraph letter to City Council members.

"The knowledges and experiences I have gained since assuming the duties of city manager are very dear to me," Wolford's letter stated. "I am leaving with good memories and without animosity or ill will."

"If needed, I will be most willing to assist city council and the new city manager in their future endeavors as a special consultant," he added.

Wolford ended the letter by thanking

DAN WOLFORD

Council members for their guidance and assistance during his tenure as city manager.

"I've been a Council member for 14 years and never have I seen a city manager the caliber of Dan," said Cook. Similar comments were made about the city manager by Council members Donald E. Wood and Mrs. Bertha McCullough.

Wolford's resignation came just eight days after Washington C.H. voters rejected a proposed issue to abolish the present city manager-council form of government in favor of a strong mayor-council plan.

Throughout the period before the special election on the government change, Wolford had said he was not fearful about his job, but was concerned about the community.

Council members did not indicate when a new city manager would be appointed to fill the vacancy being created by Wolford's resignation.

During his tenure as city manager Wolford also served as executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Community Improvement Corporation, executive secretary of the city planning commission, and secretary of the city recreation board and the city zoning board of appeals.

Wolford became possibly the youngest city manager in the nation when he was appointed at the age of 22 (November, 1970) to fill the vacancy created by the death of Clarence A. Christman Jr.

Besides being the youngest city manager in the nation in 1970, Wolford was at least 10 years younger than any other manager in Ohio at the time.

A 1970 graduate of Wilmington College, where he majored in history and government, Wolford served as production scheduling supervisor at the Colonial Stair and Woodworking Co., Jeffersonville, for four years before being appointed to the city manager's post. He also attended Morehead (Ky.) State University and Bliss College.

Raised in Washington C.H. Wolford graduated from Washington High School where he was active in high school athletics and journalism.

Wolford and his wife, Ferri, have one daughter, LeAnn.

KSU shooting not prompted by thrown items, jury hears

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nothing was thrown at retreating Ohio National Guardsmen five years ago in the final few minutes before they turned and fired on Kent State University students, one wounded former student and one ex-guardsmen agreed Wednesday.

Donald MacKenzie, the former student, said when guardsmen turned and opened fire, it had been two or three minutes since anything was thrown at them.

James Ferris, the ex-guardsmen, said he knew of nothing hurled at guardsmen during "the last few minutes" before they wheeled at the crest of Blanket Hill and fired, killing four students and wounding nine others.

Before trial resumed, the judge gave former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark 20 days to show why he should not be held in contempt for allegedly violating an April 26 order that attorneys in the case should not discuss it with newsmen.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young issued the order after viewing film of two television interviews Clark gave in Columbus on May 30. He said the evidence suggested Clark violated an attorney's code of ethics as well as the gag rule.

Clark said in the interviews that a verdict against the guardsmen would serve as a deterrent to abuses in law enforcement. He said the lesson of such a finding would be that when men go onto a campus and shoot students, "they will pay the price."

Through one of the plaintiffs' lawyers, Clark responded that he had not been connected with the case since the end of April and that the silence order never had been communicated to him. He was a member of the plaintiffs' team of attorneys in some pretrial hearings.

Ferris, from North Lawrence, said he fired twice in the air after fellow guardsmen started shooting because the nearest students he saw, a group of three or four, were by a walkway 50 feet distant. "I saw no necessity in firing straight ahead," he said.

MacKenzie, a carpenter from Frenchtown, N.J., said the last stones he saw hurled at guardsmen flew onto a practice football field as the troops prepared to leave and walk back up Blanket Hill.

He told jurors hearing claims for $46 million in damages stemming from the shootings that he was knocked off his feet by a bullet while about 500 feet from the troops and running away. He showed the court where the bullet entered the back of his neck and exited below his left eye.

The wounded and parents of the dead seek the damages from Gov. James Rhodes, three ex-state officials and 40 former and present guardsmen.

Ferris became the third witness, and the second guardsman, to testify that the first shot fired May 4, 1970, was heard while the troops were still on the practice football field. Ferris said a guardsman fired a .45 caliber pistol into the air but that he could not be identified because he was wearing a gas mask.

Earlier, a former Kent State professor of languages, testified that Gen. Robert Canterbury, commander of guardsmen on the campus, refused a chance to defuse a tense situation after the shootings and threatened to order an attack on students assembling on the campus Commons.

Watch where you're turning!

Ohio motorists will be permitted to make right turns on red (after stopping) beginning July 1, however Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night authorized the erection of signs prohibiting this procedure at eight city intersections.

The signs prohibiting right turns on red will be placed at the following intersections:

- four signs at the intersection of Court and Fayette streets;
- one sign at the southeast corner of the intersection of N. Hinde and Market streets;

- four signs at the intersection of Paint and N. North streets;
- four signs at the intersection of E. Temple and N. North streets;
- four signs at the intersection of Washington Avenue and S. Elm Street;
- four signs at the intersection of Willard Street and S. Elm Street;
- two signs at the intersection of Cedar Street and S. Elm street; and
- four signs at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Wilson Street.

The recommendation for erection of the signs at the eight intersections was made by City Manager Dan Wolford, Police Chief Rodman Scott and city inspector Glenn Tatman, following approval by City Council's safety committee.

Council's safety committee is also considering erecting no turn signs at the intersections of Market and N. North streets; Clinton and Oakland avenues; Van Deman Street and Dayton Avenue; Market and Delaware streets, and Columbus Avenue and Delaware Street.

Insurance, reciprocity eyed by Council

Work begins today on sewage treatment plant improvements

Work on improvements at the city's sewage treatment plant will be launched today, according to an announcement made Wednesday night at the regular meeting of Washington C.H. City Council.

The improvements, including the installation of $40,000 high-velocity blower, are designed to eliminate nasty odors created by the city sewage treatment plant and also as a remedy for paint discoloration which plagued a number of homes located near the facility last week.

Orville Dixon, city sewage treatment plant superintendent, said Wednesday the Dennison Construction Co., Cincinnati, will begin installation of the blower today. The blower is expected to double the plant's present oxygen supply and this step will alleviate most of the problems.

The increased oxygen supply will prevent an anaerobic action which creates the production of hydrogen sulfide and serious odors. Hydrogen sulfide was the substance responsible for paint both the discoloration on homes in the area of the sewage treatment plant and the unsanitary odors.

City Council approved the payment of $1,555 in fees to Bird and Bull, Ltd., the city's consulting engineering firm, for work completed on the preliminary stages of the blower installation.

City Manager Dan Wolford said officials of the consulting engineering firm had reduced an expected long delay in the installation of the electrical panel for the new machinery. Wolford said the electrical panel is expected to be installed in four weeks.

During the meeting, City Council member also approved a motion to prepare legislation to enter into a contract for group health insurance coverage for all full-time city employees; placed on first readings pieces of legislation dealing with an amendment to the city income tax ordinance to provide relief and reciprocity to persons subject to income taxes in other cities, and approved an expenditure for street resurfacing in addition to a number of other miscellaneous matters.

HEALTH INSURANCE

A motion to prepare legislation to enter into a contract with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Central Ohio to provide all full-time city employees with a vastly-improved insurance benefit package was approved by City Council.

The insurance package, which will cost the city approximately $25,000 per year, is scheduled to become effective July 1. Legislation on the matter will be presented at Council's next regular meeting. City auditor Jack Stackhouse said the new 120-day major medical insurance coverage proposed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield will cost $2,081.74 per month. The insurance will cover only the city's 50 full-time employees; no workers hired under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program will be involved.

The city had been previously paying $14,000 per year for a 120 day insurance plan.

Stackhouse said Blue Cross, the Prudential Insurance Co. and Travelers Insurance Co. had submitted similar bids as far as the amount of coverage to be provided. Prudential's bid was $3,043.05, while the Travelers firm submitted a $3,144.06 quote. Other bids were submitted by the Crown Life Insurance Co., the Metropolitan Insurance Co., Aetna and New York Life Insurance Co.

RELIEF, RECIPROCITY

An ordinance to provide relief and reciprocity to persons who are subject to other municipal income taxes will be placed on its second reading at Council's next meeting.

The first reading of the extensive amendment to the city's present income tax was approved Wednesday. Council member Billie Wilson abstained from voting on the measure because he voted "no" on the original income tax ordinance. Councilman John E. Rhoads, who joined with Wilson in objecting to the one per cent income tax measure in March, approved the first reading of the amendment along with the five other Council members because he said the reciprocity is a fair arrangement.

City solicitor Gary D. Smith said legally the amendment does not invalidate the original income tax ordinance.

Multiple situations are included in the amendment so that residents and non-residents of Washington C.H. will not be forced to pay full taxes in both the city where they work and the municipality where they reside.

COUNCIL REGULATIONS

A proposal designed to attract improved public participation in the decision-making processes at City Council meetings will be placed on its second reading June 25. The first reading of the proposed ordinance was unanimously approved.

Wolford said once the proposal is enacted the format of the council meetings will be altered considerably.

STREET RESURFACING

The L.P. Cavett Construction Co., which has been awarded a contract from the state for resurfacing of U.S. 35 and CCC Highway-W in Washington C.H., was authorized by City Council to resurface certain sections of streets not covered in the state contract.

The cost for resurfacing Temple Street from N. North Street to Fayette Street, Fayette Street from Temple

Street to Paint Street, and a section of Clinton Avenue was $4,851.

The total project cost, being financed almost completely by the state, is over $90,000.

The firm will begin resurfacing June 16.

ZONING QUESTION

Concern over the Washington C.H. Zoning Board of Appeals permitting a business to be established inside the corporation limits in a mobile home was expressed by Council members.

Coffee Break . .

RECORD-HERALD carriers will attend Monday's Cincinnati Reds game.

Some 50 carriers will board a bus at the 4-H office at 6 p.m. to travel to Riverfront Stadium for the Reds' game with Atlanta. . . Each of the carriers received his ticket for obtaining five new customers during the past month.

TAXPAYERS who have moved since filing their federal income tax returns should notify the post office of their change of address so refunds and rebates may be forwarded to their new address, Dwight L. James, Jr., IRS district director for Cincinnati, said today.

More than one million tax rebates averaging $125 each have been mailed to taxpayers in the Cincinnati district, James said. . . Total rebates thus far received in the district exceeds $136 million, he added.

Since the last rebate checks are expected to be mailed by the end of June, taxpayers should wait until then before contacting the IRS to inquire about individual rebates.

The maximum rebate is 10 per cent of tax liability up to a maximum rebate of $200, reduced by one per cent of adjusted gross income in excess of $20,000, up to $30,000. . . Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes in excess of $30,000 will receive a rebate of $100. . . Those who had a tax liability of less than $100 will receive a rebate equal to the tax liability.

Married persons filing separate returns will not get a larger rebate than those filing jointly since the maximum rebate for a married person filing separately is $100. . .

NOT A PRANK — The artistic silhouette of a train on this railroad crossing market on Ohio 753-S is not the work of a young prankster, but rather of the Ohio Department of Transportation. The sign is designed to assist those who cannot read or are unfamiliar with American road markers and was provided by the federal government on an experimental basis. If public reaction is favorable, the sign may replace the more common railroad warnings.

Pallbearers for burial in Washington Cemetery were Herman and Harry Jones, Henry Paul and Glen Adkins.

Mrs. Gandhi barred from public office

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A judge convicted Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today of wrongfully using government officials in her last successful campaign for Parliament and barred her from public office for six years. But a spokesman for Mrs. Gandhi said she would remain in office while appealing to the Supreme Court to set aside the conviction.

The judge in sentencing the 57-year-old prime minister stayed the sentence for 20 days so she could appeal. Her spokesman said the appeal would probably be filed Friday, and it was expected to include a request that the Supreme Court continue the stay on the sentence until it decided on the appeal.

CPEC intends to hike crude prices Oct. 1

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries says that it intends to raise the prices of crude oils on Oct. 1.

A communique issued Wednesday night at the end of the three-day OPEC ministerial meeting in Libreville said the 13-nation cartel would stand by its current price freeze scheduled to expire Sept. 30.

"However, in view of increasing inflation, the depreciation of the value of the dollar and the consequent erosion of the real value of the oil revenues of member countries, the conference decided to readjust crude oil prices as from Oct. 1, 1975," the communique declared.

Algeria and Iraq had pressed for immediate price increases to compensate for inflation losses which they estimated at almost 40 per cent. Mohamed Yaganeh, the governor of Iran's Central Bank, told reporters the October increase should be around 35 per cent, but it was thought likely the cartel would agree on a lower increase to avoid further disruption to the economies of the less affluent industrialized countries.

The conference also agreed to delay abandonment of the dollar as the basis for the computation of oil prices until the end of September. The delegates agreed Tuesday to compensate for the devaluation of the dollar by figuring prices in the International Monetary Fund's special drawing rights, or SDR's, a rate of exchange computed by averaging 16 national currencies.

CIA death plot said successful

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. James Stanton, D-Ohio, has confirmed that the Central Intelligence Agency successfully engineered the assassination of at least one foreign leader, the Plain Dealer said today.

Stanton, of Cleveland, is chairman of a House subcommittee investigating the CIA.

In a copyrighted story from Washington, The Plain Dealer said Stanton refused to name the victim but confirmed for the first time that a CIA-backed assassination plot was successful.

The House subcommittee opens hearings Friday, when CIA Director William E. Colby is scheduled to appear. The Ohio Congressman has said he plans to make public as much about his CIA investigation as possible.

The Plain Dealer quoted Stanton as saying in response to a question that it was his understanding that there were assassination attempts "in which the CIA participated."

Asked if any of the attempts were successful, Stanton said, "One. In one instance, and the record will show it when it's disclosed. It's my understanding that there was a successful attempt."

Committees of both the House and Senate have been given information from President Ford's Rockefeller Commission on its investigation of the CIA. Ford had ordered the commission to delete all references to assassination plots from public reports, saying that information was too sensitive.

But the information was turned over to Congressional committees and to the Justice Department.

The Plain Dealer said there has been speculation that the CIA was involved in slayings of three foreign leaders—Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba, Dominican Republic leader Rafael Trujillo and Gen. Rene Schneider of Chile.

Subcommittee chairman James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, said the refusal of Republican members to attend the open hearing was "apparently prompted" by the resignation of Rep. Lucian Nedzi, D-Mich., as chairman of the full committee.

The move came shortly after Stanton declared that he knows of "successful assassination plots" but refused to identify any victims.

Asked about newspaper accounts quoting him as saying he was informed that the CIA had been involved in the actual assassination of at least one foreign leader, Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, declared: "The reporter asked me, 'Do you know of any successful assassination plots?' I responded yes."

Stanton was interviewed on the CBS-TV "Morning News" about an account in today's editions of the Cleveland

Plain Dealer. Asked for details about the "successful assassination plots," Stanton said: "I think the record will speak for itself when it becomes available."

Stanton's subcommittee is part of a larger special House intelligence committee set up to investigate U.S. intelligence operations. A Michigan newspaper said today the chairman of that committee, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., has declared he is quitting his post.

The Macomb Daily in Mt. Clemens, Mich., said Nedzi told one of its newsmen in a telephone conversation that he was resigning as chairman because the Democratic caucus was stripping him of any real power to direct the committee.

Stanton had asked for Nedzi's resignation as chairman last week because of questions about whether Nedzi knew of illegal activities by the CIA and did nothing about them. Nedzi acknowledged Sunday he had been given information that CIA officials considered carrying out "some sort of assassinations."

But he said that what he was told "was history at the time."

Subsequently, Stanton's subcommittee was formed, and the CIA investigation was turned over to it. The Macomb Daily said Nedzi declared that, while he had agreed with the compromise that resulted in the subcommittee, he was to have authority to appoint its members.

"They pulled some caucus rules on me this morning which call for the filling of the new CIA investigation subcommittee with the same members of the oversight committee," the paper quoted Nedzi as saying.

"With that kind of a setup, all I'd be doing is handing over the gavel when we switch discussions, and my ego is not that great to hold onto the title in a gavel-switching game....My honor comes before a meaningless title, as my country comes first before party disputes."

Nedzi's letter of resignation would be delivered later to House Speaker Carl Albert, the newspaper said.

A staff member of Stanton's House intelligence subcommittee said the panel would begin its investigation of the CIA by concentrating on an internal investigation begun in 1973 by then-CIA director James R. Schlesinger.

The Schlesinger investigation was in response to revelations of agency assistance to the White House Plumbers. That investigation, the staff member said, "is where Pandora's box opened up."

Colby declined to comment Wednesday about the Rockefeller Commission report, other than to say he would not endorse the commission's recommendation that part of the CIA budget be made public.

"I wouldn't recommend it, but that is for Congress to decide," Colby said as he emerged from a closed session of the House defense appropriations subcommittee. The chairman of that subcommittee, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., agreed with Colby's sentiments, saying such information would risk disclosing CIA secrets.

Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate intelligence panel, said the Rockefeller report "is in all likelihood just the tip of the iceberg."

The 300-page report is limited to domestic activities, Church said, adding that "our work must probe much deeper into the CIA, examining allegations of assassination as well as the entire area of foreign covert operations."

Church said he agrees with many of the commission's recommendations but added that the report should have proposed specific criminal penalties for future wrongdoing.

At the White House, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford was drafting letters to the Defense, State, Treasury and Justice departments as well as to the CIA, asking for comments and recommendations based on the commission report.

"After he receives these recommendations and suggestions, the President will decide what action to take administratively and what legislation might be required," Nessen said.

Engineers hold monthly meeting

The Southern Ohio chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers held its regular monthly meeting at the Terrace Lounge Wednesday night.

Fayette County engineer Charles P. Wagner and Paul Junk invited David L. Weir, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Transportation, as the guest speaker.

Weir explained the goals and fiscal problems of the department to the 23 members and guests who attended. He then responded to several questions offered by the engineers.

The meeting was well attended by local engineers, including several who have retired after serving as county engineers. Among the group were Elmer Baratt of Ross County, Frank Thacker of Clinton County and Merle Paul from Madison County.

Paul was awarded lifetime membership in the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

Stock list posts gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a narrow gain today on optimism over the diplomatic outlook in the Middle East.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.33 at 825.88, and gainers held a 5-4 edge on losers in subdued trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts attributed buying to favorable assessments of Middle East peace prospects as President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met for the second day in Washington with Premier Yitzhak Rabin of Israel.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .03 to 89.48.

Several international oils gained in active trading on the Middle East optimism. Gulf was up 1/4 at 22 1/2; Texaco 3/4 to 26; Exxon 1/4 to 90 1/2; Shell 1/4 to 53, and Standard Oil of California 3/4 to 32 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .12 at 48.30.

House hits gas tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are meeting with President Ford to talk about energy after the 23-cent gasoline tax program of Democratic tax strategists was overwhelmingly scuttled by the House.

Peace feelers may be extended by both the White House and the Democratic leadership at today's meeting in an effort to end the five-month deadlock between different energy programs put forth by Ford and the Democratic congressional leadership.

After watching his gasoline-tax plan suffer a crushing defeat Wednesday night, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, indicated that a new compromise might be attempted.

"The President is in trouble with his program.... We are in trouble with our program.... Maybe we can talk. This is too important for politics," Ullman declared.

He also said, "It is not a case of backing off and accepting the President's program. We both have a new position to start from."

Ullman added he was talking about reports that Secretary of Commerce Rogers C.B. Morton had urged Ford to remove the second $1-a-barrel oil import tariff. Such a step would be a White House gesture toward compromise with Congress, where there is strong antitarriff sentiment.

As part of his energy program, Ford has imposed a $2-a-barrel tariff on imported oil and has said he will increase it to $3. Ford also has called on Congress to replace the tariff eventually with a tax of $1-a-barrel on all oil, U.S.-produced as well as imported oil, a tax of 37 cents a 1,000 cubic feet on natural gas and an end of price controls on oil and natural gas.

In rejecting the Ways and Means panel's tax plan, the House first voted 345 to 72 to chop 20 cents off the proposed 23-cent boost in the existing 4-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax. Then, by 209-187, the House killed the remaining 3-cent hike.

In the 3-cent vote, 95 Democrats joined 114 Republicans in the majority while 170 Democrats and 17 Republicans voted for the increase. Ullman, House Speaker Carl Albert and Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., were on the losing side.

As designed by the committee, the levy would have been boosted by 3 cents a gallon in January 1976 to provide $3 billion annually for a special trust fund to help develop alternative energy sources.

Starting in April 1977, the gasoline tax would have been increased in four steps of 5 cents a gallon apiece if Americans in 1976 top the 1973 national record consumption of 6.67 million barrels of gasoline daily.

However, about 85 per cent of any money raised through these up-to-20 cents hikes in the tax would have been refunded to all Americans aged at least 16.

Common law marriage may be abolished

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of the best-known and least-understood aspects of the law, the common law marriage, would be abolished under the terms of a bill passed Wednesday by the House.

The lower chamber voted 50-44 in favor of a bill abolishing the form of wedlock, but held the bill on its calendar through a technical motion. The bill would void common law marriages entered into after Dec. 31, 1976. It would not affect such marriages in effect before that date.

Supporters said the bill would remove an obsolete provision of law and spare the heartbreak to a widow or widower who thought they had a common law marriage, but didn't realize certain legal requirements must be met to make it valid.

Persons caught in that trap can be denied insurance benefits, pensions and inheritances.

The bill met strong opposition, however, from House members who argued that common law marriage is a respectable institution which doesn't deserve to be stigmatized.

Chrysler Imperial phased out

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp.'s Imperial, the regal luxury car which is selling like a pauper, is being killed off a half-century after its 1926 debut, industry sources say.

Chrysler, which built its reputation on prestigious, top-of-the-line models, is abandoning the U.S. luxury market to General Motors' dominant Cadillac and Ford's revitalized Lincoln.

Industry observers say the phasing out of the Imperial is an economy move forced by dwindling sales and a trend towards smaller cars.

Officially, Chrysler has no comment about its 1976 model plans until this summer. However, industry sources say the Imperial's demise is certain this fall.

The sources say Chrysler will pass along the Imperial body and design to the full-size New Yorker Brougham.

New Yorker buyers will miss four-wheel disc brakes, which came exclusively on the Imperial, and the Imperial's automatic load leveler, which will be available only as an additional-cost option.

Some say the Imperial died two years ago, but is only being buried this fall.

In past years, the Imperial had a distinct appearance setting it apart from other full-size Chryslers. But in 1974, when the firm introduced a restyled lineup, the Imperial became a copy of the New Yorker with slight differences in body style.

In 1957, Imperial's best sales year, Chrysler sold 34,500 models to capture 15 per cent of the high-profit luxury car market. The car has been running downhill ever since.

Laurie Lea sets own terms enroute to possible stardom

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Laurie Lea Schaefer isn't satisfied to sit back and enjoy the success she achieved as Miss America in 1972. She is determined to conquer the world of stage, screen and television, but on her own terms.

Laurie, here to emcee the Miss Ohio Pageant this weekend, doesn't accept every script submitted to her.

"I have set certain goals for myself and I just won't compromise my standards to be a so-called star," said the former Ohioan who moved to California to be where the action is in the film industry.

Her interests lie in family oriented films and musical comedies. She currently is up for a continuing role on a popular television series and a commercial for a world-famous product.

"I don't want you to think that I am interested in Disney type films just because I was Miss America. I believe we need more wholesome family entertainment so I'll just wait for the right scripts to come along," said the former Bexley, Ohio, beauty.

She has appeared in local commercials on Columbus TV stations as well as on national screens on behalf of a soup company.

Laurie is particularly anxious to make good in films and TV because it will help put her husband, John Lurie, through medical school in Guadalajara, Mexico.

The 26-year-old Miss Schaefer was on the road all but two weeks last year working the dinner theatre circuit and emceeing Miss America preliminaries in various states.

"John and I only see each other a few times a year," she said. "But he tried for years to get into medical schools in this country and he wasn't accepted. He had excellent grades and recommendations from top people, including an Ohio governor, and he still didn't get in."

She explained that most medical schools are filled up and Lurie's age of 29 worked against him.

"We decided to move to the west coast where I could concentrate on films and commercials while he went to medical school in Mexico," she said.

When they finally do get together, the Luries live in a large rambling house in the San Fernando Valley.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — In the spring of 1974, the Public Broadcasting Service tested telecasting-by-satellite with a mobile ground terminal it moved around to 18 public TV stations in the Northeast and Midwest.

Now, PBS and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting are seeking construction bids for 150 permanent receive-only satellite earth terminals which someday may be installed at PBS stations around the U.S.

They say this doesn't mean they definitely plan to buy the units. It's just another step in a long-range feasibility study on the use of satellites instead of phone lines for national broadcasts by PBS.

But the purchase could prove a major step forward in domestic telecasting by satellite, now planned only by a major cableTV company, Home Box Office, Inc., and Television News, Inc., a TV news firm.

A decision on whether PBS will shift to satellites for national program transmission probably will be made this fall, says CPB president Henry Lommis.

He said there've been estimates the 150 ground terminals on which bids are invited would cost $100,000 each, "but we're hoping that amount might be reduced significantly because of the volume."

He estimated that the current system of transmitting PBS shows to stations by land line costs between $6 million and $7 million annually.

Doing it by domestic satellite would cut costs only slightly, he added.

But he said the satellite system would give PBS far more flexibility because satellites have multi-channel broadcasting capability. It means PBS could transmit four shows simultaneously if it chose to.

"Right now, you only have one telephone line, so you can only have one program at a time on it," Lommis said. "And that makes it very difficult to have diversity."

"With this (satellite) system, for about the same amount of money, you would have the equivalent of four telephone lines, which you couldn't get terrestrially without paying an arm and a leg."

"It means that any station, by a click of a switch, could take whichever of four shows suits them at that particular moment."

Funds decide UC affiliation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Full state affiliation of the University of Cincinnati may hinge on a vote of the Ohio Senate Finance Committee, which may slash a $20.5 million inducement for the municipally-owned institution to join the state system.

Cincinnati City Council Wednesday endorsed the proposed state affiliation, but two council members said the endorsement should be withdrawn if the Ohio Legislature reneges on the funds. Ohio Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-Hamilton County, a member of the committee said the Democratic legislative leadership may move to slash the funds promised Cincinnati if it joins the state system by July 1, 1976.

Aronoff said Finance Committee Chairman Harry Meshele, D-Youngstown, "has not denied that he has prepared an amendment to slash UC's supplemental appropriation by up to $5 million a year."

UC is partially supported now by some state funds. The two-year appropriations budget approved by the Ohio House would provide UC $84.6 million, $20.5 million of that contingent upon affiliation.

Majority House leader Ohio Rep. William Mallory, D-Cincinnati, said the proposal to slash the funds was sparked by a $94 million deficit in the proposed 1975-77 state budget.

Mallory said that despite cuts in funding, the school "will be better off in the long run if it goes with the state. UC wouldn't be in this position now if it were a state school."

12-year-old boy charged in killing

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)— Lake County charged a 12-year-old North Madison boy with murder Wednesday in Sunday's death of John M. Kovach, 35, of North Madison, county officials said.

Juvenile Court Judge Ross Avellone, who set a hearing for June 19, said the youth was the youngest person ever charged with murder in Lake County.

Avellone also said the boy, whose identity wasn't disclosed, couldn't be tried as an adult because of an age limit in Ohio law.

Preview

Thank you my readers, you came through! Last week I made a plea in the “Out and About” page “Preview,” for some entries to the “Photo of the Week” contest or else I’d drop the thing. Well, a new record was set. I received eight captions! Unfortunately, the winning caption, written by Mark Rea (“Are you sure Fred Astaire started like this?”) was disqualified because of his part-time association with the Record-Herald. So, Janet Duvall wins with her caption of “My girdle is killing me!” Janet, you win an empty film canister. Come in any time and receive your fine prize.

DAVID RANKIN

“The Kinks” are a veteran English band well known for their inventive style of British rock since the days of John, Paul, George and Ringo. The best music I’ve heard by “The Kinks” was made nearly ten years ago when Ray Davies was into writing songs of clear originality, pushing his creativity into new frontiers and pulling off some of the finest moments during the golden days of rock and roll. “The Kings Present A Soap Opera” leaves me unenthused, slightly restless and wishing “The Kinks” would floor me with more of the pulsating rock that made them famous.

“Can’t Beat the Kid”
John Hammond

John Hammond winds lazily through a mixture of Alabama blues and Louisiana stomp on “Can’t Beat The Kid,” his latest LP on Capricorn Records.

Relaxed and competent describe the atmosphere surround this record. Precise drumming, wailing harmonica, bluesy vocals and sweet guitar licks fill side one, the tunes ranging from “It’s Groovin’ Time,” which was written in the early 60’s by Otis Redding and Steve Cropper (remember “Sittin’ On The Dock of The Bay?”), to the title track which was penned by Eddie Hinton, the man responsible for producing this album.

On “Diddley Daddy,” Hammond uses quiet organ chords to provide a backdrop for his singing and the sparse notes of an acoustic piano.

The legendary Sonny “Boy” Williamson wrote “Help Me,” another fine old blues tune featured here. Hammond’s voice is top-notch as he croons a spry ballad called “South-bound Blues,” to close the first side.

Opening the second side, “Statesboro Blues,” is done with steel guitar interlaced with regular six string acoustic guitar. Willie McTell wrote “Statesboro Blues,” immortalized by the Allman Brothers a half dozen years back.

One of Bob Dylan’s well known influences was Robert Johnson. Hammond performs Johnson’s “Terraplane Blues” in stylized purity, his vocal tones dark and plaintive. Hammond is a very comfortable, easy to listen to white blues singer.

What have we next? Oh yes, the traditional, infamous “Chattanooga Choo-Choo,” which graces the third spot on side two. Hammond plays it once more for us, as if we haven’t heard it before and really adds very little new feeling to the song.

“Screamin’ and Cryin’” is nice. Contemplative and mellow, the opening strains of this song sound very spontaneous and pure. This is good blues.

An old standard, “Rag Mama” and Sleepy John Estes’ “Drop Down Mama,” bring the album to a close in energetic fashion. “Drop Down Mama” is especially nice, featuring lively slide guitar and a foot stompin’ rhythm.

“Can’t Beat The Kid” is the album by the kid, whose dad gave Dylan his big break. Now Capricorn Records is pushing to break Hammond through as the blues singer of the 70’s and it’s up to us common folk to decide whether he makes it or not. I’ll give him a seven on a scale of ten he does.

Kenley Players to present Marlene Dietrich at Vets

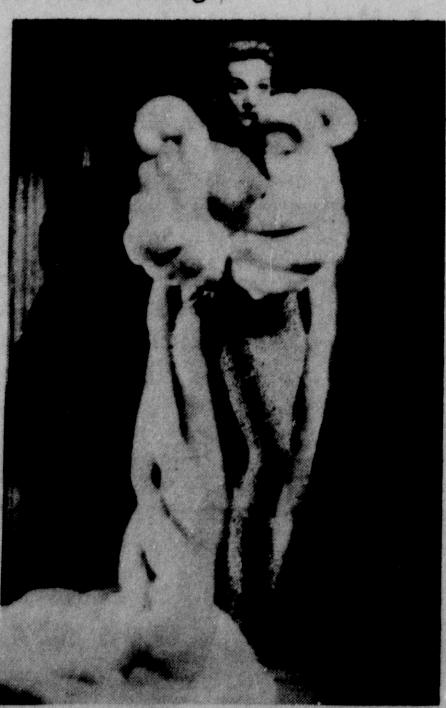

Hailed as a “living legend”, Marlene Dietrich will appear in person at Columbus Veterans Memorial auditorium for four performances only, June 13, 14 and 15.

Show times are 8:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings. There will be a Sunday evening performance at 7:30 p.m. and a Sunday matinee at 2:45 p.m.

Presented by Kenley Players, this attraction is a special pre-season spectacular and is not included in the regular season series.

In the past year, the incomparable Miss Dietrich has embarked on a highly successful concert tour across the country that has attracted standing room only crowds. Wherever she appears, the audiences come to experience the grand dame of show business, the myth, the ageless sex symbol who has been keeping the world in wonder since the thirties when she appeared in the famous German film, “Blue Angel”.

Fans attending her concerts readily understand Miss Dietrich’s appeal. Her deep husky voice is as sensuous as ever and her ever-alluring presence continually inspires adoration. Miss Dietrich’s musical arrangements are by Burt Bacharach.

MARLENE DIETRICH

Tickets for Miss Dietrich’s performances may be obtained from Kenley Players’ box office, 300 W. Broad St., Columbus (phone: 614-224-4247); from all Central Ticket Office outlets and Sears stores. Tickets may be Master Charged.

Circus here tonight

Tonight’s the night for the Hoxie Brothers Circus, which will present two performances; at 6 p.m. and at 8 p.m., on the Washington Senior High School grounds. This year’s circus is being sponsored by the Washington C.H. Jaycees and all proceeds will be donated to the area Community Education Program.

The Hoxie Brothers Circus, established in 1943 by Hoxie and Betty Tucker, plays in 200 cities each year in the eastern portion of the nation. The circus is staged under one of the largest round tents in the world. It is a unique new red, white and blue bicentennial big top where every seat provides spectators with a close view of the action.

There are no reserved seats. The Jaycees are selling advanced tickets at $1.75 for children under 12 years of age and $2.50 for adults. Ticket prices on the night of the circus will be $2 and $3.

The Hoxie Brothers Circus features the largest performing elephant act in the United States with both large and baby elephants, Asian and African elephants, male and female elephants, mixed in a gigantic display.

The internationally-famous John Herriott family of six equestrian riders perform in the ring and on the hippodrome track in the expert horsemanship style of the Austrian school.

Senorita Esqueda, of Mexico City, is noted for her spine-tingling performance as she balances while standing on her head on the high-swinging trapeze.

In the circus side show, along with the sword swallower, the fire eater, and the snake charmer, will be the smallest person in the world.

Funny clowns, pretty girls, performing dogs and ponies, jugglers and acrobats will also be featured during the two-performance show.

HAIR HANGING — Although Margaret Michelle’s hair is hidden by her feathered headdress in this photo, she is scheduled to hang by it during the two performances of the Hoxie Brothers Circus on the Washington Senior High School grounds, tonight at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. This is one of the many exciting acts.

Song writer turns performer

BY MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Song writer Barry Mann once had a German shepherd who had very big paws as a puppy. “Then she kind of grew into her paws. I feel like I’m growing into my paws.”

Mann, with his wife, lyricist Cynthia Weil, sat in cubicles years ago in a music publisher’s office — as Carole King and Gerry Goffin did — and turned out hits for rock ‘n’ roll groups. Now, at 36, he’s setting out to be a performer, singing his songs himself, and he has a new album out, “Survivor,” on RCA.

Then there was a song Mann wrote with Goffin, recorded himself and got a top 10 hit with — “Who Put the Bomp (in the Bomp Bomp Bomp)?”. “I loved it. A lot of people didn’t understand that it was a put on.”

Other previous forays into performing were appearing at teen dances to do “Who Put the Bomp?”, playing piano on his “On Broadway” when it was recorded by the Drifters and writing a 15-minute jazz-classical piece for Epic, which expected top 10 hits from Mann while he was trying to experiment musically and “grow into his paws.”

BARRY MANN

Two years ago, the Manns and daughter, now nearly 5, moved from New York to Los Angeles. Mann, who used to know every hit song, decided he wouldn’t listen to the radio for a year; he’d write and maybe eventually he’d perform. Terry Melcher heard “Nobody But You” and wanted to cut it immediately, while Mann still wanted “to get the lay of the land.” Melcher talked him into cutting the song by promising that if it didn’t go well, Mann could gather up the tapes and go home — there’d be no contract binding him to release a record. That gave Mann confidence and the recording went well.

Then, he performed at a Los Angeles concert with Carole King and that gave more encouragement.

“I was scared but it’s something I could enjoy. It’s something I want to conquer. Getting out on a stage is childish in a way but sometime you have to get in touch with the child in yourself.

“Also I want really to be known and to feel the acclaim that I feel I deserve. I think I’ve got to get out there and people have got to see me. I don’t want to be a dinosaur, a living legend who wrote a lot of hits.”

Mann says that after the album, “Survivor,” was done, “I ended up writing a song with Cynthia called ‘Survivor.’ I love it; it’s sensational. I went in and recorded it.

“It’s not in the album. I wish it was. It’s my story, that song; it’s the story of the business and what I think of myself and what I’ve been through. I watched them come and go. The last line is, ‘I’ll always be around.’”

Passantino signed as Tecumseh

CHILLICOTHE — The Scioto Society, producers of “Tecumseh,” America’s fastest growing outdoor drama, have announced the signing of Brooklyn, N.Y. actor Anthony Passantino to perform in the leading role.

Passantino, an equity actor from New York, was a cast member of the Academy Award-winning “Godfather, Part II.” He also appeared in the motion pictures “Serpico,” and “The Hospital.” His stage credits include over 25 professional roles in New York and Washington D.C. as well as regional theatres. Passantino is an expert swordsman and has been the theatre combat consultant for the American Shakespeare Festival Theatre, Stafford, Conn., and the Shakespeare Summer Festival, Washington D.C.

Passantino will stage the combat segments for director Nicholas G. Rinaldi, as the Chillicothe-based drama begins its third season on June 20.

“We are assembling the largest battery of equity actors ever to perform in an American outdoor historic drama,” Rinaldi said. “This year’s dramas will be a landmark in American outdoor theatre.”

TECUMSEH SIGNED — Broadway’s famed Nicholas G. Rinaldi directs Anthony Passantino in a crucial scene from the outdoor drama “Tecumseh” in Chillicothe.

Pathologist says report distorted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Forensic pathologist Cyril H. Wecht Wednesday called the Rockefeller Report of his beliefs a "gross misrepresentation and deliberate distortion."

Speaking to the Ohio Osteopathic Association, Wecht, a leading advocate of the theory that more than one person killed President John Kennedy, said the commission had tried to use him to validate the belief that the president was shot by one person.

"The essence of my testimony was to show through medical and scientific data that two gunmen were involved in shooting the president," Wecht said. Wecht said his efforts have been thwarted by people who have too much at stake financially to abandon the officially recognized Warren Commission report that the president was shot by only one man.

"I believe that the president was shot by two people," Wecht said, "and that is correctly called a conspiracy or political assassination."

on respiratory failure for emergency squadmen and emergency room nurses from seven southern Ohio counties.

William E. Smith Jr., Cecil D. Seaman, Ronnie Cox, Jay E. Smith, and John P. Rockhold attended the program, sponsored by the South Central Ohio Lung Association in cooperation with the Ohio State University Emergency Medical Services Training Program, Trace and Industrial Education Services, the Ohio Lung Association and the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation.

Included in the seminar were presentations on the anatomy of the cardio-pulmonary systems and acute airway obstruction, the physiology of the respiratory system, respiratory failures and emergency care, central respiratory failure and restrictive complications.

Requirement for attendance was the completion of the 60-hour trade and industrial education course on emergency victim care.

The purpose of the emergency care seminar was to help personnel function better at the emergency scene, said Mrs. John Summers, executive director of the South Central Ohio Lung Association. "Many lives are lost or jeopardized at accident scenes and places of employment because responsible personnel may not be well enough informed about respiratory anatomy and support techniques to determine proper care for patients with respiratory failure," she said.

Solons objects to high salary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, objected Wednesday to paying $1 million for five years' work by the head of the federally aided system that's to help bail out financially troubled eastern railroads.

In a brief speech to Congress, the Cleveland said a five-member panel of the U.S. Railroad Association had offered its president, Edward G. Jordan, $100,000 salary in a five-year contract to become president of ConRail.

He noted strong recent opposition in the House to raising the pay of the Amtrak chief to $85,000 per year from $60,000, and he said Jordan now receives $57,500 a year as the head of the railroad association.

Melvin Garrison, 34, of 903 Gregg St., pleaded no contest to a charge of littering but was found guilty by Judge Case and fined $25.

Mrs. Onassis turns down movie offer

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has turned down a $1 million offer to portray herself in a film about her late husband, Aristotle Onassis.

"You can characterize it as nonsense," a lawyer for Mrs. Onassis said of reports that she was considering taking the role.

Greek film producer Nikos Mastorakis said Wednesday he made the offer to Mrs. Onassis through Clem Wood, a writer working on the film script on the later years of the life of the Greek shipping magnate.

Mastorakis said he had proposed the role to Mrs. Onassis "not only for the commercial value but also because as an intelligent and beautiful lady she could make a very good actress and contribute both to the aesthetic and artistic value of the film."

After being told that Mrs. Onassis was not interested, Mastorakis said he would offer the role to English actress Julie Christie.

Sharp recovery not expected

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — There is very little evidence in corporate spending plans to suggest that business expects a sharp recovery from the recession.

Not only is actual spending down, but so are plans for future spending. Plants and equipment aren't being added or improved at a rate that would indicate optimism. The signs instead still read caution.

In fact, the producer's view on spending appears to be very much like that of the typical consumer: beware of big expenditures, watch your pennies, pay off your debts and, in general, get your house in order.

The latest quarterly survey of spending by the Commerce Department indicates business will pay $114.2 billion for plant and equipment in 1975, which means an increase of 1.6 per cent over 1974.

An increase of that size really amounts to a decrease, because of an inflation-induced variance in the buying power of the dollar.

Further confirmation of the cautious mood comes from cutbacks in plans for future spending. A Conference Board study of manufacturers' first-quarter plans for future spending showed a cut of 9.4 per cent from the previous quarter.

Moreover, studies show also that money previously appropriated is often left unspent, indicating cancellation of expansion or modernization plans because of a poor economic climate.

The significance of the statistics can't be underestimated because they seem to say this: While the index of leading indicators suggests a recovery is almost certainly on the way, it isn't likely to be a sharp one.

Any time you have consumers and producers both holding back, waiting for the green light, you have a leadership void, a situation in which everyone is waiting for the next guy to make the move.

It is this disinclination to get away from the starting blocks that represents the biggest economic challenge to the Ford administration. It isn't a new situation; it has happened many times in the past, leading inevitably to political exhortations to "get this country moving again."

Words, however, aren't likely to work in the current situation, because there is considerable evidence to indicate that the various segments of the economy are sick of words, don't believe them and won't act on them.

Until the future comes into better focus, both producers and consumers seem to be saying, we'll stand pat.

The reasons why the future remains blurred are many — the lack of an energy program, the realization that unemployment seems to be a long-term rather than short-term problem, the uncertainty about prices.

How do you get someone to make a move? Ah that's the question, the answer to which solves the problems of us all.

Voss tackles Taft for Senate

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Peter E. Voss, unsuccessful candidate in the 1974 Republican primary, is preparing to take on U.S. Sen. Robert Taft for the party's Ohio senatorial nomination next year.

Voss, a Canton businessman who lost the nomination last year to Mayor Ralph J. Perk of Cleveland, has been making soundings, addressing party gatherings, sending articles to newspapers expounding his view of the state of the party and meeting with business groups responsive to his call for removing government controls on industry.

Voss clings to the hope Taft ultimately will decline to seek reelection although he has taken out papers to permit candidacy. His staff said he would run.

At the same time, Voss is attempting to undercut the senator's strength by raising questions as to his health, his large campaign debt from 1970 and his record in Congress.

"I am not an announced candidate," said Voss, "but I would like to be one."

He said he has attracted volunteers who support him. He is delaying official announcement of his candidacy, but he sounds like he has made up his mind to take on Taft.

Voss, 44, is banking on Taft retiring at the end of next year, pointing out that while Taft aides say their boss will run, he doesn't think Taft has made a definite decision to run.

"He's still chewing it over," said Voss. "In view of his health it is too early to make a decision."

Taft has recovered from a heart attack and cataract surgery.

"I am known as an active guy with a lot of stamina," Voss said. "However, I will not make the Taft health an issue. I will run a positive campaign."

To keep Voss from making inroads among Taft financial supporters, the senator is meeting privately with groups of leading businessmen in those communities where he makes public appearances.

While in Toledo May 2 to open his new offices, Taft met privately with 15 top businessmen leaders at a breakfast.

In an interview Taft acknowledged the threat of a Voss campaign. It is particularly unwanted because it would compel the senator to lay out money for another primary battle.

"It is a free country and anybody who wants to get into a primary is welcome to do so," said Taft. "I think it is a healthy thing to have people interested in running for office in the Republican party."

"I am not looking for a fight with anybody if I can get away without a fight. But, I certainly don't want to be in a position of saying that everybody ought to stay out of a primary contest in this race, or any other race in the Republican party."

Voss is chief executive officer of Northeastern, Inc., a diversified engineering company he founded in 1954.

Peter Stuyvesant was a Colonial governor who had only one leg.

Judge wants civil pretrial by telephone

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Shaker Heights Municipal Court Judge Manuel Rocker says he is launching a program which permits pretrial hearings for civil cases to be handled by telephone. Judge Rocker says the program was started to speed up operations and save lawyers' travel and waiting time. He says it may be the first such program to be tried in Ohio.

Rocker said Wednesday he got the idea last month after a lawyer called to say nothing could be accomplished at the pretrial hearing and there should not be one.

The judge said he insisted that the lawyer come to court anyway but then "it occurred to me that when I practiced, some pretrials were worthwhile and others were not. I said that it would save time for all parties if we made the decisions over the telephone."

Elvis splits suit pants

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley finally did it.

During a concert before a home town crowd in Memphis, Presley split the pants of his white suit.

"Of all the places in the world to split my pants, it would be in my home town.

Is it bad?" he asked the band behind him.

He was assured that it wasn't but stood knock-kneed facing the audience of about 12,000 for a few moments Tuesday night.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.
FRIDAY, JUNE 13

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)
Some complex situations indicated, but none that you can't solve in your usual efficient manner. Don't be distracted by the frivolities of others.
TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Fine influences! You should be able to hurdle almost any obstacle now. But DO avoid emotionalism; also impulsiveness and extremes.
GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Get all promises in writing. Others will respect you if you are firm but fair. A slight disappointment could eventually rebound to your favor, so patience!

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)
Apathy and indifference now prevalent in certain quarters. Don't let them dampen your enthusiasm, but do counter and poise and equanimity.
LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Caution should be day's keynote. Don't create unnecessary problems through impulsiveness, and take no reckless chances.
VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
You may be able to put over a good deal, conclude a profitable agreement. At least, steps toward such ends can be initiated. But don't press; maneuver adroitly.
LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Planetary influences somewhat mixed. Be constructive in planning.

tenacious in implementing. System with flexibility needed.
SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Perceptiveness, reflexes and business acumen should be keen now. Especially favored under day's influences: merchandising, property transactions and financial negotiations.
SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Keep alert. Generous influences offer new routes and means for attaining better-than-average gains. Don't miss out!
CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
A good day in which to capitalize on your ingenuity and all-around competence. Properly exercised, even your most minor talents and efforts will be appreciated.
AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
In the tight spots, patiently wait out those things which call for more thought and delaying tactics. Avoid impulsiveness, at all costs.
PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Some misleading influences prevail, so be careful of your involvements — with people OR situations. Avoid anxiety or undue suspicion, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually imaginative, ingenious and inventive; can not only dream up brilliant ideas for improvement in whatever your field, but better those which others advance. You have a great love for color and display. The latter may be noted in your liking for uniforms, which may lead you into the armed forces — despite your aversion to warfare or any other form of violence. You love travel, are attracted to the theater and could succeed there either as actor or playwright. In fact, writing comes natural to you, and you may take it up as either vocation or avocation. Other fields which you could conquer with seeming ease: music, designing, sculpture, chemistry and statesmanship.

Recorded music replaces live acts in discotheques

By JURATE KAZICKAS

Associated Press Writer
The discotheques are back. The pulsating beat of recorded music is replacing live entertainment at an increasing number of the nation's night spots. Radio stations in several major cities have adopted a disco format in their programming. And recording stars who are the heavy favorites of dancers are going on promotional tours.

It is the rhythmic sound of jingling coins in a recession era as much as the hot beat that has contributed to the revival of dancing until dawn on floors of stone and steel under shattering strobe lights.

Club owners have found it cheaper to hire one good disc jockey instead of a bunch of live entertainers. Top hits and new releases are free from record companies. In some clubs, such as the Sound Machine in Los Angeles, drinks are less than $2.

Some observers of the frantic activity say people are trying to dance their money problems away. And those who can't afford the cover charge now have disco music piped through their stereos at home. Radio stations in New York, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Washington play hits such as "El Bimbo" and "The Hustle" for up to five hours every night.

Discotheques were imported from France about 10 years ago. Back then limousines packed with jet setters jammed the streets in front of those first discotheques. Arthur's in New York was probably the most famous.

The current discotheque revival is more egalitarian than before. Straights and gays, black and white, the young and the young at heart join together in thousands of clubs across the nation, bouncing to that distinctive disco beat.

Mr. Laff's in New York, formerly a singles bar, became a discotheque in 1972 when the pub scene got overcrowded. Owner Phil Linz said business was booming better than ever.

Robbery suspect accused of others

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A man being held on Wednesday on bank robbery charges was accused of two earlier robberies at an Akron savings and loan, FBI agents said.

Agents said Billy Wade Archie, 28, of Rocky River robbed the Ohio Savings Bank in Akron May 28 and June 6.

He was arrested in Sandusky on Monday after a gunshot-punctuated chase following a $5,200 robbery at the Third National Bank of Sandusky, police said. The money was recovered.

Archie was held under $22,000 bond.

Common Cause turns attention to state

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Common Cause of Ohio, which until now has limited its efforts mainly to national issues, has launched a campaign on five state issues despite declining membership.

"Our membership peaked with Watergate," said David C. Hetzler, executive director and lobbyist for the state group. "A lot of people think that because Watergate is over our job is over, but that definitely is not accurate."

Peak Ohio membership in Common Cause was 11,500. Membership now is down to 10,700. Hetzler said, with about 3,200 of that total in Cleveland's four congressional districts.

But, in April the Ohio group opened a Columbus office, hired a full-time lobbyist and selected five state government issues on which to focus.

Four of the chosen issues also are national goals — campaign finance reform, conflict of interest, reform of lobby disclosure laws and reform of open meeting laws. The fifth, an antigerrymandering campaign, is unique in Ohio.

Hetzler said the issues were selected by the state steering committee based on responses from Ohio members to a national poll of priorities taken last year. Next year a special priority poll is planned for Ohio.

"We're trying to make it as democratic as possible," said Hetzler. "However, even if 100 per cent said they wanted us to work for reform of marijuana laws we'd have to balk."

"Our mission is process reform in the political arena. One of the mistakes many citizens' groups make is that they tend to get washed out in so many areas that they lose their effectiveness."

Hetzler said Common Cause's stepped-up efforts in Ohio already have paid off by helping get an open meeting bill out an Ohio Senate committee where it had been languishing for months.

Also, past efforts by volunteers have put legislators "more on guard about how they spend their money and who they get it from."

Ohio now is organized by congressional districts with a coordinator and steering committee in almost all 23.

"Within that framework, we hope to break the membership into General Assembly districts and have a contact in each of those districts who will closely follow the work of his or her representative," Hetzler said.

He said Common Cause also plans to publish a state newsletter to keep members, media and other citizens informed about state voting records and the progress of Common Cause issues.

Park rangers must protect Grand Canyon from people

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — The National Park Service is working harder than ever to protect one of nature's wonders from its only natural enemy — mankind.

There is growing influx of campers into the Grand Canyon, and for this the Park Service has itself to thank — or blame.

By blasting trails out of the canyon walls and providing other improvements, the agency has made it possible for today's camper to have many of the conveniences of home.

Some areas have power, telephone, and water lines and campground toilets. There are wide trails where once only sheer walls stood.

In 1964, the Park Service said an estimated 9,000 persons hiked into the 217-mile landmark which stretches across northern Arizona. Last year, 73,000 persons went by pack mule or on foot into what once was one of the nation's most inaccessible areas.

In an effort to curtail the number of hikers, primarily on weekends, the Park Service now requires reservations for those staying overnight. Their number is limited in each campsite, even on the tiny Havasupai Indian Reservation in an isolated crevice of the canyon.

But deciding how many persons the canyon can handle is tricky.

"There's a certain amount of factual knowledge that you have to have, along with common sense and a little guessing," says Park Service official Bob Yearout.

"One thing we found is that we can accommodate more people now with the limitations than when we didn't have them. When we didn't have them, we find that everyone was coming on certain weekends.

"The writing was on the wall, and we now have the limitation on areas for the whole park."

But despite the heavy use, Yearout said that today's hikers are more considerate of the majestic surroundings than in the past.

"I think people are a lot better today than they were two or three years ago," he said.

"We now have a policy that whatever you take in you take out. You no longer can bury your garbage like you did in the Boy Scouts."

"There are still those few who just don't know any better or don't give a damn and tear up plants or paint their names on the rocks, but I don't think there are as many."

Tickets ready for state fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Advance ticket sales for the 1975 Ohio State Fair begin June 18, with a 50-cent savings to buyers before the fair opens.

Tickets will be sold by Ohio 4-H Clubs for $1.50. When a club member sells the ticket, 25 cents goes to the club and 10 cents goes to the Ohio 4-H Foundation Endowment Fund statewide.

Cores of the earth, taken by the Glomar Challenger, an oceangoing drilling rig, have proved that the Atlantic Ocean is expanding by about one inch a year and is pushing the Old and New Worlds apart.

R-H weekly carrier series

We salute

Fourteen-year-old Cheryl Lynn Roberts is The Record-Herald's third featured newspaper carrier.

Cheryl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welton Roberts, of Good Hope, will be an eighth grader at Wayne Elementary School in Good Hope.

A Record-herald carrier for more than two years, Cheryl has a total of 63 customers on her newspaper route in Good Hope.

She was a student in Miss Penelope Farquhar's class at Wayne Elementary School this year and carried a C average. Her favorite subjects are spelling and English.

Cheryl enjoys collecting antique coins as a hobby and her favorite sports are baseball, basketball and tennis. Cheryl said her favorite foods are mashed potatoes and pizza and in her spare time she enjoys riding her mini-bike.

The young Record-Herald carrier is apparently banking money earned on her route since she said she has not made any major purchases.

"I like meeting people and talking to my customers," Cheryl replied when asked what she enjoyed most about being a Record-Herald carrier. Her only dislike was "When I get stuck with the customer's bill."

Cheryl has one sister, Melanie Kay, 19.

"We can always depend on Cheryl to have our paper to us at a reasonable time," said Mrs. Dennis Summers, 7230 Ohio 753-S, one of the customers on Cheryl's route. "There has never been a time when we didn't get a paper and she has been courteous at all times and has given us very good service."

Solon wants aid for non-public use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton legislator has proposed a study to determine if the state can find a way to continue providing auxiliary aid to nonpublic schools without violating a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

The high court last month overturned the state's parochial law that authorized state funding of certain special programs at nonpublic elementary and secondary schools.

Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, said he would introduce a resolution in the House directing the Legislative Service Commission to appoint a House-Senate committee to investigate "possible means" of continuing the aid.

"The loss of this support would compound the serious financial problems facing nonpublic schools, and would threaten the curtailment or loss of such services as guidance and testing, programs for the handicapped, and remedial reading programs for more than 250,000 nonpublic school pupils," the resolution reads.

Orlett said the committee would be directed to report its findings to the legislature by next Jan. 15.

New York City has high-priced people

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
New York City, recently rescued from the brink of financial disaster.

spends more money on its citizens and foots the bill for more public services than any of the nation's other major cities.

The New York budget for the fiscal year that ends June 30 was just under $11.9 billion, an expenditure of almost $1,907 for each of the city's 7,894,862 residents.

The 1975 budget for Chicago — the nation's second largest city — is just under $1.1 billion, an expenditure of about $325 for each of the city's 3,369,357 residents.
Los Angeles spends about $263 per resident; Philadelphia spends $504; Detroit spends $510; Cleveland, which some experts believe may face financial trouble in the future, spends $146.77.

New York City accounts for 30 per cent of all the short-term borrowing in the country.
New York had hoped to borrow another $1.7 billion but underwriting syndicates — who buy the bonds, then resell them — said no. That put the city in its current financial bind.
In an effort to avoid disaster, the city and state agreed to create the Municipal Assistance Corp., dubbed Big Mac, a new state agency to refinance the city's short-term debt and revise fiscal practices.

The new agency limits city borrowing and requires a balanced budget. Like most other cities, New York already is prohibited from deficit financing, but often has wound up in debt due to complex maneuvering.

Glowing indicators don't help now

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble right now for millions of American families is that they can't live out there in the future where the so-called leading indicators are pointing.
The index of indicators, which measures 12 economic factors that point to the future, rose 4.2 per cent in April. But the jobless rate, which measures the present, hit 9.2 per cent in May, highest in 34 years.
If you live in the world of the leading indicators you see a golden glow in the economic sky. If you live in the present you observe very little of that glow.
The index of indicators measures stock prices, new building permits, new orders for consumer goods, plant and equipment orders, the money supply and inventory changes and the like.
These are forerunners of further economic activity, it is argued. They supposedly act like catalysts. They are the yeast in the bread, but you can't taste that bread yet.

dinary person, the consumer, whose willingness and ability to spend can make or break the economy?
Government and private sources now believe that the typical house is nearly or completely priced beyond the buying ability of the typical American. How then is this critical industry to recover?
Certainly it will recover, because ingenuity is not dead in America and neither is the need for housing. A way will be found to overcome the housing problems, but when?
The most hopeful sign in housing is the attempt by builders and materials suppliers to design simpler homes. Dimensions are being shrunk. Garages are being omitted. Kitchens are less elaborate. Attics remain unfinished.
The same thing is happening in automobiles, but it's taking a long, long time to happen. Despite the worst sales figures in more than a decade, some Detroit auto executives claim to be optimistic.

One result of this has been the tendency to produce more cars than can be sold. In other words, the future tells the automakers one thing, but the present another thing. The future tells the automakers that with personal income rising people can afford cars. The present says they can't.
That tug-o-war probably will go on for many months more. You can support almost any economic forecast if you choose the proper mix from the grab bag.
Meanwhile, the present is a grim presence in our midst. It can't be ignored.

Methodist delegates seek reduced military speeding

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the nation's largest United Methodist Church conference called upon the federal government Wednesday to make substantial reductions in military spending.
Contending the United States is using a disproportionate amount of tax funds for war, the West Ohio Conference adopted a resolution urging that government spending be altered to better serve human needs.
Delegates also voiced their opposition to any attempt by this country to use military means to force oil-producing nations to sell their products to the United States.
Conference business today was to include announcement by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of the results of balloting for 36 delegates to the 1976 general conference in Portland, Ore., next April.

Bishop Ensley was to ordain 64 men and women as United Methodist ministers in ceremonies tonight.
In other action Wednesday, delegates commended efforts of President Ford to improve U.S. relations with black African peoples and at the same time reiterated conference support of restoration of American trade sanctions on Rhodesia because of that country's apartheid policy.
The conference directed a study in its almost 1,400 local churches on the subject of conscientious objection.
The conference wants to learn whether the United Methodist Church is providing sufficient information and support for those considering this alternative to military service, spokesmen said. Results of such studies are to be reported to the 1976 annual conference.
Earlier Wednesday, the Rev. Walter Dickhaut Sr. of Columbus, director of the conference Crusade for Pensions, reported that cash and pledges of more than $5 million had been received up through June 6 toward a goal of $13.6 million. The crusade continues until the fall of 1978.

If your car smells musty after a rain, find the leaks and repair them. A good way to find the leaks is to drive the automobile through an automatic car wash because the high-powered spray is almost guaranteed to seep through any leaks.

THIS HELMET HURTS MY EARS! — At the beginning of the motorcycle trip 14 local bikers took to Louisville, Ky., Mary Kimble (pictured) could be heard telling Dennis Brown (in background) and everyone else cycles make her a nervous wreck, the helmet hurt her ears and she was sore from riding. At the trip's end, she was the first one to ask when the next trip was. Motorcycling is like that, more and more people are finding out. Once it's in your blood, it's there to stay.

New breed of cyclists hitting area highways

BY MARK THELLMANN
Motorcyclists of the past have been associated with tattoo parlors, beer taverns and pool halls. They have been accredited with two-wheeled gang warfare and spewing great quantities of pollution from their engines and their mouths. But, the great gas panic coupled with today's economic crisis has produced a new breed of "bikers." Some of the nicest people can be met on a Honda or a Suzuki or even on a big, rumbling Harley Davidson. Washington C. H. is without exception, having a certain percentage of its residents affected by the incurable disease, "cyclemania." Dennis Brown (Please turn to Page 15)

RELIEF IS JUST A FRIENDLY SMILE AWAY — Montgomery police, Symmes Township police and Hamilton County Sheriff's deputies, stopped this group of bikers from Washington C.H., outside of Maderia, to run a suspicious persons check. The officers explained they had had a lot of trouble with a group of motorcyclists, who have allegedly assaulted law enforcement officials in the past. This incident was an exception, due to the fact the image of the motorcyclist is changing so much today; because of the gas crisis, people from all walks of life own cycles.

BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE — there's no place like bed. After eight hours of motorcycle riding from Washington C.H. to Louisville, Ky., Debbie Sweet was one of the 14 riders who attended the trip, who immediately tried out the beds at the Louisville Holiday Inn; however, it wasn't for long. An hour later it was time to get on the cycle once again and head for Louisville Downs to see the motorcycle races, which was the purpose of the trip.

STOPPING BY THE WOODS — When taking a long motor cycle trip, it's good to stop and stretch every 30-50 miles. Washington C.H. bikers are shown relaxing for a few minutes, on U.S. 62-S before taking to the road once again.

Motorcycle trip

is one such person, a carrier in his own right, for he passes the disease along to anyone whose resistance is low. And if you feel you're on the road to recovery, Brown will pop up suddenly and announce the plans for the next cycle trip from Washington C. H. to who — knows — where. This happened last weekend and the bikers who participated, returned to their homes more afflicted than ever, for a good time was had by all.

It's hard to describe what it's like to travel on a motorbike to someone who has never had the experience. A man by the name of Robert M. Persig wrote a book last year called "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance" and he touched on the metaphysical aspects of cycling. So, how does having raindrops piercing your skin like needles at 60 miles per hour, bugs squashing against your jacket, goggles and nose, and the possibility of you being pancaked by a passing motorist become a religious experience? Well, in Persig's book, he explains by making a comparison between a car and a cycle. He says in a car or some other form of confining transportation, you are boxed in by glass and forced to look out of this container to view what's going on around you on the road. If it rains, you are covered and if it's too cold or too hot, you adjust the heater or air-conditioner.

On a motorcycle, you are directly affected by the elements. You get cold, you get wet and you brush the bugs out of your teeth occasionally. You are an active participant in the scenery! You are at one with the road and everything surrounding you.

So, Brown and nine other cycle owners from Washington C. H. and vicinity departed from Dave Smith's driveway at 540 Damon Dr., at 9:05 a.m. Saturday morning. The purpose behind the trip to destination, Louisville, Ky., was to see the Louisville Downs cycle races featuring all the greats (those with terminal cyclemania) biking around in a huge circle at speeds well over 100 miles per hour.

I joined this group of clean-shaven, short-haired motorbikers, few of which had tattoos and none of which were very good at pool, on my mighty Honda 450 to find out what this two-wheeled insanity was all about. The 14 persons on the nine bikes in the group were myself, Debbie Sweet, Mark Ruley, Dave and Carla Smith, Mike and Wilma Stritenberger, Bill and Gloria Robinson, Mary Kimble, Steve Alsbaugh, Tim Brown, Dennis Brown and Randy Morgan.

Saturday morning's departure was beautiful. The sun warmed the air into the upper seventies and the sky was a puzzle of Cumulus clouds. Spirits were high as we headed south on U.S. 62, which I might add, is a beautiful route with many roadside trees and very little traffic.

It's best to cycle with a group or at least another biker when going on a trip of any length. If there's a breakdown, the other person can always go for help (or gas) and they are there for company on the road, plus the fact two cycles are more easily seen by motorists than one. This brings to mind an unwritten rule which should be followed — keep your headlights on at all times while on the road, even though this is not required by state law.

The motorist who knows nothing about cycles assumes you possess the acceleration of a good 10-speed and nine times out of 10 will pull out in front of you.

When we hit the Ohio River, we began following Ohio 52, which is also very beautiful. Brown had told us we would probably put the bikes on the ferry and go across the river but it was closed, so we were forced to enter Cincinnati in order to get on I-75 and then transfer to I-71 into Louisville. He had made reservations at the Holiday Inn in Louisville and we had to claim the rooms by 6 p.m.

If you're quick at math, you're probably wondering how in the world we started running late, allowing nine hours for what would be a four-hour ride by car. You stop a lot when you're cycling, not only for gas, but to allow the bikes to cool off and to get yourself a cup of coffee and do some stretching and walking around. No matter how plush your cycle seat is, you still get sore after awhile and you just have to take a break!

After securing the rooms in Louisville, we rested, showered and took off for the races, which we never saw because they were all sold out, but the group I was with made the best of the situation by teaching one of the girls how to drive a cycle in the Louisville Downs parking lot and then going to dinner on a converted river boat.

Back in the rooms once again, we all attempted a good night's sleep, but the next morning at breakfast, Tim Brown was said to have made noises in his sleep like he was down-shifting all night and Dennis Brown explained he dreamed he had returned to Washington C. H., pulled into Stop-N-Go and once off his bike, watch it fall apart before his very eyes. The others had no trouble with sleep and Mark Ruley and Steve Alsbaugh even elected to sleep outside by the bikes to see they weren't stolen.

We then readied ourselves for the jaunt home and decided to take Ohio 42 from Louisville into Cincinnati and then the CCC-Highway-W into Washington C. H. We arrived around 9 p.m. Sunday, tired and a little sore, but filled with happy memories of a trip we were all glad we had taken.

If you are one of those people ready to come down with a full-fledged case of cyclemania, accept it — a cure has not yet been found, but please learn to handle your bike well and especially obey all traffic laws. There's nothing like it, but motorcycle riding must be treated as the epitome of defensive driving!

When Owens Lake bed, located near Death Valley National Monument, was full, the water contained so much borax and soda that neither fish nor mammal could live there.

City Council action

Rhoads expressed concern that the matter could ultimately lead to more requests for establishing business and erecting mobile homes as residences inside the city limits.

"This could cause future problems and the matter is completely beyond our jurisdiction," said Rhoads.

Wolford pointed out that the city zoning code (adopted in 1962) is deficient and outdated and he suggested that Council members review the code for possible revisions.

The business was established in the mobile home May 21. Wolford pointed out that the zoning board has approved six hardship case variances for persons to reside in mobile homes since 1962. The latest hardship case variance was granted in 1973.

It was noted that decisions reached by the zoning board are not subject to Council's approval. The only jurisdiction Council members have in such matters are to change the zoning code or dissolve the zoning board.

Council members will be meeting with zoning board member to review the situation.

STOP SIGN

Problems resulting from stop signs posted in the area of Temple and Water streets at the U.S. 35 junction were discussed by Council members.

It was noted that Washington C.H. residents are not familiar with the new stop sign situation. Officials said they counted 55 autos which avoided a stop sign at the intersection in a one-hour period the first day the sign was posted.

Wolford was authorized to seek cost estimates for installing flashing lights atop the stop sign on U.S. 35.

POLICE CRUISERS

Council members again postponed action to request bids for new cruisers to be used by the Washington C.H. Police Department.

Specifications have been prepared, but Council is now considering the possibility of asking for optional bids on engines. The matter will be discussed again June 25.

In other matters regarding police cruisers, Police Chief Rodman Scott presented a report on bids received for installing air conditioning units in two of the cruisers presently being used on routine patrol duties.

Eastside Radiator Service submitted a $350 bid for installing a unit in a Plymouth, and $370 for a Ford. Other bids were received by Carroll Halliday, Inc., $419 for an in-dash unit in a Ford, and Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket, $465 for installing an in-dash unit in a Ford. Both of the auto dealers said they could not obtain in-dash units for a Plymouth. No decision was reached.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS

In other matters:

Council chairman Ralph Cook requested a status report from attorney Robert L. Simpson regarding delinquent income tax collections;

Council members recognized Dale Butler and Ernie Wilson who will be attending Council meetings on a regular basis representing the Washington C.H. Jaycees; and City solons discussed the possibility of obtaining new estimates on extending street lighting on Columbus Avenue, and establishing an additional outlet at the city parking lot on S. Main Street.

Ohio rail transportation authority OKd by solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate narrowly approved a House-passed bill Wednesday to create an Ohio Rail Transportation Authority over charges its sponsors had "the cart before the horse."

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, and others referred to a constitutional amendment, still pending in the House, that would give the new agency its basic powers.

He said language in the proposal, by Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, provides for the envisioned five-member agency to subsidize railroads, to the point of reimbursing them for losses, in "clear contradiction" of existing constitutional law.

The amendment had been scheduled for a House floor vote Wednesday, but was carried over until today. Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, Senate sponsor of Wilkowski's bill, said the House proposal would clear up constitutional doubts.

Van Meter, along with Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said backers of the Wilkowski measure were making "quite an assumption" in saying the constitutional amendment would be approved in a vote of the people. "You've got the cart before the horse," the Ashland Lawmaker asserted.

Bowen said the bill would give Ohio a "designated agency", required under the federal Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, to qualify for up to $9 million in federal rail subsidy funds. He said the proposal could help the state save about 2,000 miles of existing railroads which otherwise face abandonment.

The Cincinnati Democrat said the five-member authority—four of whom would be named by the governor—could help industries throughout the state which depend on the railroads to get their products to market. "It would save thousands of jobs," he said.

Under the bill, the director of transportation would serve as the fifth member of the authority, in an ex-officio capacity. The chairman would receive a salary of $6,000 a year, the other members $5,000.

The vote on the bill transcended party lines with Bowen picking up only three more than required for passage in the 33-member body.

Dante Lavelli travels miles for Washington C.H. pastor

By BOB SULLIVAN
Springfield News

St. Colman Catholic Church held its 21st annual dinner the other night and the Rev. Richard Connelly, its pastor, snared celebrities for the occasion.

It helped that Father Connelly not only is pastor of St. Colman, but also chaplain of the Cincinnati Bengals.

A for-instance was Dante Lavelli, who was so sensational as an end for the Cleveland Browns in the late 1940s and early 1950s he will be enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame Aug. 2.

Only hitch came when Lavelli went to Washington Court Houses, unaware that Father Connelly had moved the party to the Wilmington Elks Club.

Lavelli didn't mind the extra miles from Cleveland because "that fellow married me and I'd do anything and go any place for him."

Lavelli began doing for Father Connelly long ago. It was Lavelli and Lou Groza, former Cleveland placekicking star, who suggested Connelly to Coach Paul Brown when he asked if the players wanted a chaplain. That began a long football association for Father Connelly, who switched his allegiance to the Bengals when Brown took over.

Lavelli recalled the days when the Browns won six divisional and three National Football League championships under Brown.

"The coach always wanted us to go to church on championship day," Lavelli said. "We were meeting the Giants for the title, and Brown, on this occasion, went to church with the Catholics."

"You remember, in the big city churches, they took up all those collections. Well, Paul donated for the pew as we entered, contributed to the first and second collections and, when the ushers started around the third time, turned to me and asked, 'Are they gonna search us now?'"

Brown, who will present Lavelli for enshrinement in Canton, "is the greatest," said Lavelli.

DANTE LAVELLI

"He's forgotten more football than most guys will ever know. He never uses a note, in offense or defense, but knows where every player should be in every situation."

It was Brown, then coach at Ohio State, who noticed a flaw in Lavelli's running when he reported to Ohio State as a halfback, and converted him to an end. In his 11-year pro career, Lavelli wound up with 396 receptions for 6,488 yards and 62 touchdowns.

Lavelli, now in the furniture business in Cleveland and vice president of the National Football Alumni Association, conceded that "you look for it (enshrinement), but you're never really sure. Then when it comes you hardly know what to say or do."

He contended the biggest change in the game "are the people."

"Because of huge salaries, some players have become bigger than the game," he said. "Gone are the real enthusiasm and the close ties."

"They talk about the bump-and-run nowadays. Heck, we had that with one difference. A defender didn't bump you, he knocked you down."

ABA to operate with 10

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association's decision to forego its proposed dispersal draft of players from the financially plagued Memphis and San Diego franchises guarantees, at least temporarily, that the league again will operate with 10 clubs next season.

The dispersal draft would have been held sometime between today, the start of the Board of Trustees meeting, and Monday, the date of the college player draft. But a league spokesman said Wednesday that the dispersal draft had been cancelled, at least for now.

It could, however, be conducted within about a month, or whenever final disposition is made regarding the league's two weakest franchises.

Frank Goldberg, part owner of the Denver Nuggets and a native of San Diego, was expected to ask for a 30-day delay in resolving the fate of the wobbly franchises, giving him more time to work on the possible purchase of the Conquistadors.

"I have talked with several trustees and they have given me the impression they will go along with this move," Goldberg was quoted as saying Wednesday. "It is not completely assured, but I feel certain we'll be able to delay action."

Canning questions
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — As more and more persons nationwide have been seeking to beat rising food costs by preserving some of their own foods for later use, nutritionists have been deluged with questions.
Such is the case with Evelyn Gray, extension nutritionist at Ohio State University who says canning especially brings questions from experienced as well as first-time canners.
The following are her answers to questions most frequently asked.
—What causes jars not to seal? Should I reprocess?
"Jars may not seal because of flaws in the jar or lid, or if food is left on the sealing edge. Seals may also be broken, if self-sealing lids are tightened after processing or set upside down to cool. After processing, do not tighten or turn over jars with self-sealing lids."
—What causes discoloration in foods?
"Darkening at tops of jars may be due to air in jars or too little processing to kill enzymes. Overprocessing may discolor food throughout the jar. Pink and blue in pears, apples and peaches are due to chemical changes in natural fruit colors. Iron and copper from water or utensils can cause brown, black or gray colors. Brown color in corn may be caused by variety, ripeness, overprocessing or by using copper or iron pans. Foods may fade if stored in the light."
—Is it safe to eat discolored canned food?
"Color changes mentioned above do not mean food is unsafe. Spoilage may also cause color changes. If color is unusual, examine canned food carefully for bulging ends, leaks, spurting, off odors or mold. Follow this rule: 'If in doubt, throw it out.' Preferably, burn or triple wrap for garbage."
—If food looks and smells all right, can it be used directly from the jar?
"Low-acid foods (vegetables, meats and mixtures) should never be even tasted until they have been boiled 10 minutes, corn and greens 20 minutes. Heat to boiling, cover and continue boiling 10 or 20 minutes. Then, they may be safely eaten, if there has been no foaming or off odor."
—What causes food to spoil?
"Common causes are overmaturity or poor-quality product, lack of cleanliness in handling and underprocessing or failure to follow recommended methods."
—May peanut butter, pickle and salad dressing jars be used for canning?
"These make good refrigerator storage jars, and some of the sturdy tapered jars can be used in freezing. However, they are not intended for reuse in canning, are not tempered to stand heat and pressure, and either do not use standard jar lids or have a narrow and uncertain sealing surface."

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Cataract Operation: Painless, Safe

I've been told that I need a cataract operation. There are so many things I want to know about the operation. Can you relieve my fears? I hesitate to ask my doctor for too many details.

Mrs. G.M., Neb.

Dear Mrs. M.:

The cataract operation is painless and remarkably safe. The standard and newer techniques for the removal of cataracts will return vision within weeks after the operation is performed.

One of the great mistakes made by patients is to believe that all of their questions will remain unanswered by their doctors. This has no validity. Physicians and surgeons know that the best results of any form of treatment occur when patients completely understand the details about their illness and the projected plan of treatment.

I have a mole on my back. When I dry myself after showering it sometimes bleeds. Should moles be left alone or removed, even if they haven't grown larger?

Mr. R.B., Ill.

Dear Mr. B.:

Discolored spots that are elevated above the surface of the skin are called "moles." There are many varieties of moles. Most are harmless and should not be a source of concern.

Many people seem to have a compulsion to play with moles and pick on them.

Even highly trained doctors cannot tell by looking at a mole if it is cancerous or non-cancerous. For this reason skin specialists should examine moles that seem to be getting larger, or ones that bleed.

You would be wise to show the mole to your doctor. This can easily be removed and sent to the laboratory for microscopic studies. This would alleviate your concern.

Does flying present any special dangers for a woman in the early stages of pregnancy?

Mrs. V.L., S.C.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Pressurized commercial planes make it possible for pregnant women to fly safely. Unless there is some special health problem there is no danger to the mother or to the unborn child.

But it is a good idea to check with your doctor before taking any trip. Some doctors may prefer that women in the later stages of pregnancy remain grounded until the baby is born.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Summer recreation program scheduled

The Washington C. H. summer recreation program is being expanded to include programs, on a limited basis, at four locations throughout the city. The summer schedule of activities begins Monday.

In addition to a daily program at Eymann Park, supervised activities are scheduled one day each week at Cherry Hill School, Belle Aire School, Christman Park and Rawlings Street Park.

Community Education director Hank Shaffer said the program will be operated at the other locations to accommodate those children who are unable to walk or arrange transportation to Eymann Park.

Activities are planned from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 until 4 p.m. daily at Eymann Park. The same time schedule is planned for each of the other facilities, but only one day each week.

A program will be conducted at Cherry Hill on Monday, at Belle Aire on Tuesday, at Christman Park on Wednesday and at Rawlings Street Park on Thursday.

The schedule of activities will include basketball, softball, wiffle ball, arts and crafts, checkers, frisbee throwing, croquet, coloring and badminton among others.

Children four years of age and older are invited to attend, and there is no charge.

The summer recreation activities is conducted for the city by the Community Education program. Shaffer's office is located in the Middle School, and further information may be obtained by calling 335-6621.

Gas in spray cans may be harmful

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gas that propels underarm deodorants as well as many other sprays may damage the world's upper atmosphere and increase the risk of skin cancer, a federal task force warned today.

If so, it may be necessary to ban fluorocarbon gas from those super-civilized cans of aerosol deodorant, antiperspirant and hair spray, the group said.

The cosmetics themselves could be used. But if no other gas propellant could be used in these products, the cosmetics would have to be applied with roll-on applicators, tubes, flasks or hand-squeezed atomizers.

"There seems to be legitimate cause for serious concern," the panel concluded after a five-month review of warnings that first surfaced a year ago that fluorocarbon gas may damage the protective ozone layer in the upper atmosphere.

It recommended:

—Immediate consideration of a requirement for labeling aerosol products using fluorocarbon gas.

—International cooperation on studies and perhaps control of fluorocarbons.

—Restriction of fluorocarbon uses especially in spray-cans if a more detailed study by the National Academy of Sciences confirms their suspected danger.

—And quick passage by Congress of a proposed Toxic Substances Control Act that would provide broad federal authority to regulate not only the fluorocarbons, but other possibly hazardous substances.

In response to the task force report, a group representing the aerosol fluorocarbon industry said "recent and potential discoveries and measurements of chlorine compounds in the atmosphere may ultimately invalidate the theory that fluorocarbons may contribute to ozone depletion."

The Aerosol Education Bureau statement quoted a DuPont Corp. research scientist, Richard Ward, as saying the government report "essentially concurs with the industry's position that there is no appreciable danger in continued use of fluorocarbon compounds while studies are completed."

The task force, headed by the President's Council on Environmental Quality and the Federal Council for Science and Technology, said fluorocarbons present a classic example of society's ability to poison its environment on a global scale by some seemingly trivial activity.

The fluorocarbons — generally chemical compounds of carbon, hydrogen, chlorine and fluorine — are commonly known as "Freon," one of their trade names.

The task force reported that some 13.8 billion pounds of two fluorocarbons now as F-11 and F-12 have been produced so far worldwide, excluding the Soviet-Eastern Europe bloc.

About half of the total was produced and used by the United States.

One way or another just about all fluorocarbon eventually escapes into the atmosphere — sprayed, leaked or discarded.

The task force said there is no complete proof, but substantial reason to believe, that once released the fluorocarbons work their way up to the stratosphere and break down there to release chlorine atoms.

The stratosphere is laced with ozone, a three-atom form of oxygen which is rare among the two-atom oxygen of the lower atmosphere.

The task force said chlorine liberated by fluorocarbons in the stratosphere may break down ozone. A reduction of ozone may let more ultraviolet radiation through and the increased radiation may increase skin cancers throughout the world.
